FULL STACK WEB DEVELOPER

I am a full stack web developer with experience primarily in JavaScript, but with an interest in C# and Java. My previous careers as a Massage Therapist and an Automotive Technician brought me closer to my true passion: adding skills to my toolbox that I can use to help people lead more fulfilled lives. I am a forever-student and in the next phase of my career, I not only want to use my strong interpersonal skills to help understand client needs, but also to work on the technically challenging and problem solving aspects of the project. At my ideal company, I will work with a team of like minded people who will continuously challenge me to learn and grow as a developer.
